

Letter to all my friends and sponsors,

Dear friends,

How are you? The days are flying very fast and again we meet back through this letter. Hoping you are fine. I also hope one day we meet in person.

The last Semester of final year has begun and this semester is filled with mixed feeling of both tension fear and joy. Fear and tension because of final university exam, joy is because I am finishing my final year exam. I am also sad because my student life is coming to an end. I will be missing my batch mates, my professors who have been an inspiration for me to become good doctor. I am also happy that I am finishing my MBBS and I can start working in our hospital in the future.

The syllabus to study is vast. I am working hard. I am not only studying but also teaching my classmates and we together are trying to achieve our goal. I would miss being together with them, studying with them and getting scolding from professors for committing mistakes.

Really I am grateful to you because of whom I have got an opportunity to study and I my heart is filled with gratitude towards you, our congregation, mother general and founder. More than all I am grateful to almighty God for this opportunity and for sending good people into my life.

I also realised that just being knowledgeable is not important but I also need to be empathetic towards people and I have to be filled with wisdom to really treat and heal people. As I am growing in age the understanding of life also is different. What a joy to live for others instead of thinking of self. Actually people around us are too good like you.

I also would like to share a beautiful faith experience. I was actually finding very hard to study and always frightened and could not study for the exam. I prayed to the lord to remove my fear and anxiety and this exam I was not frightened and cleared all the subjects. If we believe in the creator and work hard nothing is impossible. Life is actually easy when we surrender ourselves to the creator. More the challenges more he will fight for us.

I also pray that all your hearts desire be blessed and fulfilled and you may be rewarded hundred fold for your generosity. You may feel constant presence of God in all your undertaking. You may be protected from all evil and danger. Once again thank you for all your support and encouragement.

After writing this letter, when i am about to send it, I got the joyful news of my results. And I am happy to inform you that I have passed MBBS with first class marks. Praise be to God and thanks to each and every one who helped me to do these studies. God bless you all.

Thank you

Yours sincerely
